McMANUS HELD GUILTY IN MURDER TRIAL

Judge Orders Verdict Of Acquittal; Rothstein Case Ends

BY MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The case against George McManus, the smiling gambler who was charged with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, was ended today upon instruction of the judge for an acquittal verdict.

The District Attorney hardly put up a struggle. He admitted he had proved almost nothing, when the defense moved for an instructed verdict. The court agreed and in five minutes' time it was all over, leaving the question of who killed Arnold Rothstein as free from answer as the one about the death of Cock Robin.

The court was very nice about it, of course. Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., felt that the District Attorney had worked under a tremendous burden but that he had failed, nevertheless, to establish a hypothesis of guilt.

McManus, when court adjourned, shook hands with all his friends, kissed his wife, and smiled his big open-faced smile on everyone within smiling distance. Mrs. McManus, flushed and happy, clung to his arm.

All Over Quickly
The whole proceeding was over in record-breaking time. Judge Nott came into court, wearing his black robes, nodded to the jury, seated himself on the bench and looked at the prosecution table.

"I would much prefer, gentlemen of the jury, to have you weigh the circumstances of this case and take the responsibility from my shoulders. I would rather pass that responsibility on to you," the judge said.

"But in view of the facts I cannot do other than instruct you gentlemen to return a verdict of not guilty in this case."

The action today leaves the Rothstein mystery without a legal answer. More than a year has lapsed since the killing. The puny evidence in the McManus trial has shown how little the state really knows of who killed the biggest gambler on Broadway.

Three men remain under indictment. They are Herman Biller, bookmaker, and two men named in the indictment as John Doe and Richard Roe. But as the evidence against all of them was supposed to be much the same as that against McManus, and as none of them are under arrest or their whereabouts known, it is doubtful if any attempt to revive the indictment can be made.

Reynoldswood Meat Products Demanded

The popularity of Reynoldswood meat and dairy products is creating a public demand and both of these departments at the estate west of the city are now operating at full capacity. Beef, mutton and pork from the Reynoldswood farms is now on the market both in Dixon and Rockford. The meat products are from carefully selected animals of the herds which is prepared by experts. The Reynoldswood dairy products have recently been placed on sale at the Sterling luncheonette and meat products at the Bridges market on First street.

The demand for the meat products necessitates the slaughtering of several head of cattle, sheep and hogs at the farm each week. The hogs and sheep are from the herds raised on the farms near the beef is secured from carefully selected herds.

CHAMPION STEER BROUGHT OWNER $8.25 PER POUND

Iowa Youth Will Use Part Of Money To Go To School

BY MERTON T. AKERS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chicago, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Lucky Strike, grand champion of the International Livestock Exposition, sold at auction today for $8.25 a pound, an all-time record.

The black steer was bought by J. C. Penney, chain store owner, and will be slaughtered.

Lucky Strike weighed 940 pounds, which brought $7,795 to Elliott Brown, Rose Hill, Iowa, youth, who raised and petted him into the championship.

While Elliott did not receive as much money as Clarence Goeckle, State Center, Iowa, did for "Dick" last year, the $8.25 per pound price is $1.25 above Goeckle's sale. Clarence got $8,050 for his grand champion.

Elliott said he would take part of the money and go to Iowa State College at Ames, and "really learn something about raising steers."

"I have no particular qualms about seeing Lucky Strike being sold and slaughtered," Elliott said, "that's what he was raised for. Of course, I got sort of attached to him after feeding and caring for him."

In contrast to the high price paid for the grand champion steer, the grand champion carload lot of steers brought only 35 cents a pound for E. P. Hal, Mechanicsburg, Ill.

Stockmen consider the carlot championship the real prize of the show, inasmuch as it is considerably more difficult to produce 15 champion steers than one.

ITALIAN KING AND QUEEN IN VISIT TO POPE

Were First Sovereigns Of United Italy To Enter The Vatican

Rome, Dec. 5.—(AP)—King Victor Emanuel and Queen Helena paid their long awaited visit to Pope Pius XI this morning. In so doing they made history, being the first sovereigns of United Italy to enter the Vatican, which only recently ceased to be a place of self-imposed imprisonment for the Pontiffs.

The King and Queen journeyed to Vatican City, the newest political entity in Europe, with an imposing retinue of courtiers, Minister of Foreign Affairs Dino Grandi and Count De Vecchi, Italian Ambassador to the Holy See.

Their Majesties and His Holiness met in the Vatican throne room. They were alone there; doors were closed and guarded, and what they said was not disclosed.

But their conversation, whatever it was, marked the tacit approval of both to the treaties which made it possible, those signed at the Lateran Palace last February 11, ending the 60-year-old so-called "Roman question."

Hundreds of thousands of Romans and Italians from all parts of the country saw the royal party progress through Rome in closed automobiles. There was some disappointment that the visit was not made in carriages of state as had been planned. The automobiles were accompanied by an escort of cyclist police; the imposing military display usual to royal processions was absent.

Houses along the route flew the tricolor and papal yellow and white. The King was dressed in his full uniform as a General, wearing the Order of Annunziata. Queen Helena was dressed exactly as an American woman would be dressed for an audience at the Vatican, in black veil over a white gown, with long sleeves and high neck. She wore no jewelry.

"The scholarship, which includes tuition, room, board and expenses has not been given for some years. When it was decided to renew it, McNicol was chosen by Dean James Alton James, of the graduate school, and Miss Harriett Vittum, directress of the Northwestern university settlement.

"In return, McNicol will live at the settlement house, which is located at Noble and Augusta streets, Chicago, where he will assist in the work in the Polish colony. He will select campus men who are interested in such work to positions on the settlement staff.

"McNicol who has been engaged in settlement work for some time has represented the campus Y. M. C. A. at the settlement. He is vice-president of the Y group.

ADMITS KILLING FIVE MEMBERS OF ONE FAMILY

"Old Grudge" Cause Of Murder, Slayer Confesses Today

Los Angeles, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Having confessed that he killed five members of one family to satisfy an "old grudge," Armando Boltares, 24-year-old San Fernando, Cal., truck driver, today was held in the county jail for trial on a charge of first degree murder.

Boltares, arrested yesterday, confessed to Captain William Bright of the Sheriff's homicide division that he had beaten to death with a club Mrs. Helena Alvarez-Garcia, her son, Charles Alvarez, 18, and two daughters, Carmelita, 12, and Elsie, 6 and then decapitated their bodies and buried them in shallow graves in Pacoima Canyon near San Fernando.

He asserted he later traced Luciano Garcia head of the family, to Azusa, Cal., shot him and buried the body on the ranch where he was employed as a laborer.

Boltares said Mrs. Garcia two years ago induced him to draw then had been trying to poison him to get the money. He also said the woman tried to come between him and his sweetheart, Dolores Guich-ajala.

Carlstrom Disputes Game Warden Ruling

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Dismissal of 800 honorary state game wardens by the State Department of Conservation on the ground that Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom had held they were holding office "without legal force" was disputed by Carlstrom's office here today.

A letter which Director Ralph Bradford of the Conservation Department mailed out to 800 honorary game wardens recently asked them to turn in their credentials. The letter stated that an opinion by Carlstrom, dated April 18, this year had held they had no legal status.

The Attorney General's office refused to make any comment on Bradford's letter today but issued copies of the opinion referred to by the Director.

The opinion was requested by Bradford to determine whether he had authority for making the appointments and as to whether these honorary officeholders were required to take an oath of office.

Bradford at the time stated that he understood there were several thousand such honorary wardens.

In his opinion Carlstrom stated: "Appointment of game protectors or investigators by your department is authorized under section four of both the fish and game laws, but the number of such employees and their selection are matters of policy to be exercised by you as Director."

Youth Escaped From Rockford City Jail

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 5.—Leaving a note reading "Well, so long. I'm not going to stay here," John Carlson, 18-year-old Rockford youth, unscrewed the bolts in the cage door of the matron's room of the Rockford city jail last night, and using a rope of blankets with which he lowered himself from a window, escaped. At noon today the police were without trace of him. Carlson and Carl Johnson, 19, had been arrested Tuesday, accused of a series of robberies, and the former had been locked up in the matron's rooms to keep him from "framing" a story with his companion. He used a toilet paper holder in unscrewing the door bolts.

Maywood Village Is Defendant In Suit

Chicago, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Suit for $25,000 damages against a Maywood Police Magistrate and others, including three policemen, has been filed by Arthur Estep, a resident of the suburb.

Estep was arrested last August after he had parked his automobile to enter a luncheon. He was booked, the complaint says, for disorderly conduct and was held in jail until August 15 when he was released on an appeal bond.

The Police Magistrate is George P. Lee.

The village government of Maywood was investigated by the Chicago Motor Club and the State's Attorney's office on complaint of numerous motorists arrested for traffic violations.

Honorary Wardens' Stars Are Recalled

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Honorary game warden stars issued to several hundred persons during the Small administration have been recalled by Director of Conservation Ralph P. Bradford in keeping with the Attorney General's ruling that such appointments have no legal standing.

Mr. Bradford also declared that the honorary appointments are of no benefit either to the holders or to the department. He suggested that the state might, however, appoint a number of persons to aid in enforcing the game laws on the same basis that the federal government used "dollar-a-year" men during the war.

The state's full time game wardens have a new type bronze star with blue lettering replacing the former nickel stars.

Edison Goes South For Winter Months

East Orange, N. J., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison today was transferring his experiments to produce commercial rubber from golden rod and other weeds to his winter home at Fort Myers, Fla.

Five freight car loads of weeds and other material have preceded Mr. Edison to Fort Myers where a dozen assistants have been installing laboratory equipment.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison and four servants were to leave today for the south. Fred Ott, chief experimenter for the Edison Laboratories, who has been with Mr. Edison for 55 years, also was on his way to Fort Myers.

William H. Meadowcroft, secretary to Mr. Edison, denied published reports that the inventor had carried his experiments to the point where he saw the possibility of producing a substitute rubber at approximately 16 cents a pound. It was explained Mr. Edison's experiments are merely to discover a substitute in case this country should be shut off from the crude supply.

Mr. Meadowcroft refused to disclose the basis of the new rubber, but said some of the best results had been procured in experiments with golden rod, the bane of hay fever sufferers. He said the process involved drying and pulverizing stems of weeds, then subjecting them to prolonged boiling.

SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER TELLS U. S. WHAT'S WHAT

Also Intimates the World Had Better Mind Own Business

BULLETIN BY UNITED PRESS
Terms of the preliminary Chinese-Russian agreement for settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute were rejected today by the Manchurian government, threatening another breakdown in negotiations.

Manchuria declined to accept the Soviet demand for reinstatement of the Russian Manager and Assistant Manager of the railway in any capacity. Manchuria also refused the Soviet demand that the Chinese president of the road be entirely dismissed.

Comment in Moscow, where reports of the Manchurian action had not been received, continued to attack the procedure of American Secretary of State Stimson under the Kellogg treaty and stressed the general belief that the Soviet would blame Stimson's action if Manchuria refused to accept the preliminary agreement.

The terms of the agreement were considered the most favorable to China that would be granted by Russia under any circumstance.

Moscow, Dec. 5.—(AP)—America, France and Great Britain would much better turn their minds to activities in South America, warships in Chinese waters, and armies in colonial countries than to obstruction of Sino-Russian negotiations in the opinion of Maxim Litvinoff, acting Commissar for Foreign Affairs for the Soviet Union.

In the largest hall in the Kremlin last night the Russian Foreign Office head addressed the Central Executive Committee of the Communist Party—the most powerful political body in the U. S. S. R.—explaining and emphasizing the Soviet's answer to the American demarche in behalf of application of the Kellogg peace pact to the Manchurian problem.

His speech was interspersed with occasional bits of sarcasm which brought ripples of laughter from his hearers; particularly was this the case when he announced Panama had joined the countries reminding Russia of the Kellogg pact. He suggested that Panama look into whether the pact safeguards its own existence from the hands of predatory neighbors.

Address Like Notes
In general tone the address was similar to the identical notes sent the United States, France and Great Britain Tuesday. In these it was stated that the Soviet could not consider their reminder of the Kellogg pact obligations as a friendly act, and that no nation, or nations, were empowered as protectors of the pact.

Litvinoff emphasized that the declaration of the United States and other countries to Russia was considered by the Soviet government as unjustified interference in Russian affairs.

"The Soviet Union, unlike other countries, rejected extra-territorial rights and privileges in China," he said, "and it would seem strange, under this circumstance, the Nanking and Mukden governments took the path of violence with provocations toward Soviet Russia."

"Explained" Situation
"It is explained by the simple fact that the start and further encouragement of actions of the Nanking government originated from the imperialistic camp. The Chinese generals threw the challenge to the Soviet government only because they were backed by the imperialistic powers and conscious of the Soviet Union's desire for peace. Therefore the powers encouraging the actions of Nanking should carry the collective responsibility for the Chinese-Russian conflict."

M. Litvinoff referred to activities of the Red army, saying that continued assaults and provocations by the Chinese had forced the Soviet soldiers to take drastic measures which would not only drive the Chinese from the Soviet border but also would destroy White Guard or counter-revolutionary bands located further inland.

REASON FOR EFFORT
Washington, Dec. 5.—(AP)—America's effort to restrain Russia and China from open and avowed warfare was prompted by an interpretation of the Kellogg peace treaty which gives any signatory nation the right to remind other countries of their commitments under that pact and not by unkindness toward the Soviet as charged by the Moscow government.

Such was Secretary Stimson's response to the sharp rebuff with which the Soviet Union greeted the memorandum which the Washington government sent to Moscow and Nanking calling attention to treaty obligations and the American endeavor to recover confidence.

"We have, fortunately, since our previous crashes established the Federal Reserve System. The first step in recovering confidence was made by the powerful effectiveness of that system and the strong position of the banks, the result of which has been steadily diminishing interest rates, with a smooth, and rapid return into the channels of business of the money previously absorbed in the speculative market. This is a re-

LINDBERGH HAS CHARGE SEARCH FOR LOST PILOT

Fifteen Aviators In Hunt For "Buddy" Lost Four Days

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The dead body of Pilot Thomas P. Nelson and his air-mail plane, badly shattered, were found this afternoon by a rabbit hunter near Chagrin Falls, 35 miles southeast of here. Nelson met death early Monday morning while flying the air mail from Bellefonte, Pa., to Cleveland, in a heavy and blinding snowstorm.

Nelson's body had been hurled by terrific impact of the plane against the ground, about 25 feet from the wreckage. Undoubtedly he was killed instantly.

The body was found by Joseph Vincent of Chagrin Falls, ending a three day hunt made by fellow pilots over most of northeastern Ohio and western Pennsylvania.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had led 15 airplanes all this morning, covering the section between Cleveland and Youngstown, north to Lake Erie in frantic search for Nelson, not knowing whether he was dead or alive.

Nelson, one of the best fliers of the National Air Transport Line, formerly was a "buddy" of Col. Lindbergh when they were on the air mail route between Chicago and St. Louis.

The last flight of Nelson started at 12:30 A. M. Monday at Bellefonte. His plane was heard about 2 A. M. roaring over Clarion, Pa. Then it seemingly was swallowed up by the storm.

Search for the flier started a few hours later. Five airplanes started out first, but gradually the number swelled to 15 this morning. There were 26 at the airport this afternoon ready to join the hunt when the body was found.

Nelson's parachute was partly open, indicating he realized the impending tragedy but too late to save his life by jumping. The body was lying face downward in the snow.

The nose of the plane was driven deep into the frozen ground. Vincent was accompanied on the hunting trip that led to the finding of the body, by Louis Belinger, of Cleveland. Vincent first saw the wreckage and called Belinger. Together, they scrambled down into the ravine and then rushed to

Steamer Foundered
Off Ireland Today

London, Dec. 5.—(UP)—A storm which raged today over the British Isles drove the S. S. Frances Duncan on the rocks off Waterford on the Irish coast, where it foundered.

Lloyds announced a message from the British steamship Alice Marie reporting the rescue of five survivors. The Alice Marie continued to search for other members of the crew of the wrecked vessel.

A terrific gale, ranging in velocity from 50 to 82 miles per hour, swept England, disrupting communications and causing considerable property damage.

Houses were blown down and trees uprooted in many sections. Telegraph and telephone systems were disrupted.

The gale swept up heavy seas in the North Sea and English Channel. Trainers returned to Hull in a battered condition, their crews declaring the gale was one of the worst in years.

Many accidents both on land and sea were reported as the storm swept across the British Isles.

The liner France was so buffeted by the storm that it omitted its scheduled call at Plymouth and proceeded direct to New York.

BOAT IN DISTRESS

Marseilles, France, Nov. 5.—(UP)—The Marseilles wireless intercepted a message today from the Italian steamer Vesuvio in latitude 42.34 North longitude 9.43 west, near the coast of Corsica calling for assistance.

Another message was received from the British steamer Shandon which asked for immediate assistance. The message said the ship was drifting ashore at Barry Dock, England.

TUNNEY PLANS DEFENSE

New York, Dec. 5.—(UP)—It was reported today that Gene Tunney and his lawyers virtually had brought plans for defense of the suits wrought against the former heavyweight champion by Katherine Fogarty of Ft. Worth, Tex., and her husband, John.

Tunney and his wife who just arrived from Italy, are staying temporarily at the Hotel Dorset here, but it was said that they planned to leave soon for Stamford, Conn., where Tunney built a home for Polly Lauder before their marriage.

George W. Whiteside, Tunney's attorney, has not decided whether it will be necessary for the former boxer to appear in court at Bridgeport, Conn., where Mrs. Fogarty's $500,000 breach of promise suit is scheduled to be tried next month. Fogarty also is suing for $500,000, charging alienation of affections.

It was learned that the Tunneys were contemplating a trip to Florida after Christmas.

WHOLE PEOPLE
HE DECLARES

versal of our historic experience and is a magnificent tribute to the system. Capital is becoming more abundant in all parts of the country, the bond market is growing stronger each day and already public issues held back for months have begun to appear.

"The second action necessary to maintain progress was the standard set by leading employers that so far as they were concerned there would be no movement to reduce wages, and a corresponding assurance from the leaders of labor that not only would they use their utmost influence to ally labor conflict, but would also co-operate with the employers in the present situation. These assurances have been given and thereby we not only assure the consuming power of the country but we remove fear from millions of homes.

Expansion Assured.

"The third line of action has been to undertake through voluntary organization of industry the continuity and expansion of the construction and maintenance work of the country, so as to take up any slack in employment which arises in other directions. The extension and organization of this work are the purpose of this meeting. The greatest tool which our economic system affords for the establishment of stability is the construction and maintenance work, the improvements and betterment and general clean-up of plants in preparation for the production and the increased demand of the future. It has long been agreed by both business men and economists that this great field of expenditure could, by its acceleration in time of need, be made into a great balance wheel of stability. It is agreed that its temporary speeding up to absorb other wise idle labor brings great subsequence benefits and no liabilities. A very considerable part of our wage earners are employed directly and indirectly in construction and the preparation and transportation of its materials. In the inevitable periods when the demand for consumable goods increases and labor is fully employed, the construction and maintenance can slacken and we actually again gain in stability. No one would advocate the production of consumable goods beyond the daily demand; that in itself only stirs up future difficulty.

Program Approved.

"I am glad to report that such a program has met with universal approval of all those in responsible positions. Our railways and utilities and many of our larger manufacturers have shown a most distinguished spirit in undertaking to maintain and even to expand their construction and betterment programs. The state, county, and municipal governments are responding in the most gratifying way to the requests to co-operate with the federal government in every prudent expansion of public works. Much construction work had been postponed during the past few months by reason of the shortage of mortgage money due to the diversion of capital to speculative purposes, which should soon be released.

"It is to make this movement systematic in all branches of the industrial world that we are here—that is the task. I believe that with the great back logs which are already assured by the public service institutions and the governmental works you will be able to build up the construction and maintenance activities for 1930 to a higher level than that of 1929, and that is what we require.

"Another of the great balance wheels of stability is our foreign trade. But in stimulating our exports we should be mainly interested in development work abroad such as roads and utilities, which increase the standards of living of peoples and thus lead to a more stable and prosperous world, for we gain in prosperity by a prosperous world, not by displacing others.

All Toward One End.

"All of these efforts have one end—to assure employment and to remove the fear of unemployment.

"The very fact that you gentlemen come together for these broad purposes represents an advance in the whole conception of the relationship of business to public welfare. You represent the business of the United States, undertaking through your own voluntary action to contribute something to the stability and progress in the economic life. This is a far cry from the arbitrary and dog-eat-dog attitude of the business world of some thirty or forty years ago. And this is not dictation or interference by the government with business. It is a request from the government that you co-operate in prudent measures to solve a national problem. A great responsibility and a great opportunity rest upon the business and economic organization of the country. The task is one fitted to its fine initiative and courage.

"Beyond this, a great responsibility for stability and prosperity rests with the whole people. I have no desire to preach. I may, however, mention one good old word—work."

INTERIOR DEPT.
APPROPRIATION
BILL IS READY

Carries $283,189,973
For The Fiscal Year of 1931

Washington, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The Interior Department appropriation bill, the first of the annual supply bills completed by the appropriations committee, was introduced in the House today carrying $283,189,973.74 for the fiscal year 1931.

This is $244,102.04 less than current appropriations and $184,674.00 less than the sum recommended by the Budget Bureau for 1931.

The largest item in the bill is $235,099.40 for the Pension Office which cares for veterans of all wars in which this country has engaged except the World War. Its allotment is some $5,000,000 less than in the last appropriation measure.

The next largest share in Interior Department funds is the Indian Bureau with an appropriation of $19,786,129.74, which represents an increase of more than $3,000,000 over its last allotment.

Other bureaus administered by the Interior Department and provided for in its supply bill are the General Land Office, Reclamation Service, Geological Survey, National Park Service, Bureau of Education and Government in the territories and Alaska. All of these except the land Office and Territorial and Alaskan governments receive larger appropriations under this bill.

William Atherton de Puy, Secretary Wilbur's administrative assistant, was severely criticized by the committee, the executive hearings published with the bill showed, for writing magazine articles concerned with Indian Affairs and other subjects under the Interior Department and for writing a letter to the editor of Good Housekeeping magazine suggesting that criticism be voiced of Indian Affairs to "arouse Congress to action."

Rescue At Sea

New York, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Another thrilling rescue at sea was revealed today when it was learned from a radio message that the U. S. L. R. Republic had saved the Captain and crew of the schooner Gander Deal as it foundered in the Atlantic.

The terse message received by the United States Lines from Capt. A. M. Moore undramatic as it was, hinted at the danger and heroism involved in the rescue.

"Captain and ten seamen 'all well," the message read. "Rough weather and westerly gale. Proceeding at reduced speed." The time was given as 5:30 A. M.

Since "derelict" was the term used by Captain Moore in describing the Gander Deal, it was strongly suspected that the ship must have been in sore straits when the Republic reached it, especially in view of the seas that have been running high for several days.

It was believed that the Gander Deal was not equipped with wireless and that the rescue was affected just in time to take the men off the tossing schooner.

DERBY BILL INTRODUCED

Woman's Party Has New Home In Washington

BY MARTHA STRAYER
(United Press Correspondent)
Washington, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Nearly any woman would turn feminist for a house such as the one America's leading feminist organization has just moved into here.

The National Woman's Party is settling down in one of Washington's finest old Colonial mansions, furnished with some of the finest old Colonial furniture to be found in America.

The house cost $100,000 and will be called the Alva Belmont House, in honor of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, wealthy suffragist, who has been the "angel" of the party since the adoption of the 19th amendment. Within the next few weeks it will resound with stirring feminist doctrines, when the woman's party holds its annual convention and discusses the equal rights amendment, equal rights for women in South American republics, and the right of a married woman to maintain her nationality where she chooses.

Meanwhile woman's party members are hanging pictures, moving furniture here and there to see where it looks best, and raving about bedroom wall paper and open fireplaces like any other woman getting settled in a new home.

Built By Lord Baltimore
The handsome residence is said to have been built by Lord Baltimore for one of his relatives. It stands within a block of the Capitol and one block of the Senate Office Building. It has three stories and a basement, a fireplace in every room and a kitchen fireplace big enough to roast an ox.

Its windows look out on a rose garden with gravelled walks winding through thousands of rose bushes. Two old houses at the rear have been bought by the organization and will be torn down to add to the garden. A garage next door, which also has been purchased, probably will be turned into a small auditorium for theatrical performances and meetings.

Most of the rooms are furnished in keeping with the Colonial atmosphere of the place. The dining room has mahogany; the bed rooms have four poster beds and quaint old tiny-mirrored dressers. Only one room, the drawing room, has been given a modern touch with hintz-covered love-seats and davenport.

member of the Mendelssohn Club also of that city.

The Music Dept. of which Mrs. Koller is chairman, has arranged this splendid program for the club. Everyone attending this meeting may feel assured of a delightful afternoon of song by a true artist.

The members of the Philanthropic Dept. have requested the members to bring their jam, jellies and carpet rags for the wounded World War veterans, at Elgin.

Guests are cordially invited to attend this meeting upon payment of the small guest fee. Christian church 2:30 P. M. Saturday.

Marriage With Mrs. MacArthur Is Possible

New York, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The New York Daily News today quoted Lionel Atwill, the actor, as saying, "his marriage to Mrs. Douglas MacArthur was 'within the realm of possibility.'"

Both Mrs. MacArthur and Atwill have been divorced twice. Mrs. MacArthur, daughter of Mrs. E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, was first married to Walter Brooks, Jr., of Baltimore, in 1911. They were divorced in 1919, and his marriage to his second wife, Elsie Mackay, ended in a divorce last year.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—(AP)—"What are the movies doing to children?" That is the question Mrs. Alice Miller Mitchell attempts to answer in "Children and Movies" published last week by the University of Chicago Press.

Motion pictures supply the demand of youth for life, Mrs. Mitchell believes. In the study of the influence of the motion pictures on children, made possible by a grant from the Wiebolt Foundation, she received information from 10,052 children.

"The movie is the world's greatest story book," Mrs. Miller writes. "Filled with life's tale, it is for all. But the juvenile edition is not yet off the press."

"As life's experiences unfold to the children in proportion to their years and understanding, so should movie life, which is a dream world painted in shadows, be unfolded to the children according to their ages and understanding."

"Many children have experiences of life far beyond their years, and these children are robbed of some of the preciousness of childhood. Almost all children who attend movies—almost all children attend movies—almost always are exposed to screen experiences of life that are far beyond their years; and these children, too, perhaps are robbed of some of the preciousness of childhood."

"The bud torn open is neither a bud nor a flower, for it is a part of both and not all of either. It is too slender and uncertain to be a flower. It is too open to be a bud. But this need not be. The bud need not open until maturity. The movie need not portray to the children things that are not of and for children."

The investigation revealed that delinquent children attend the movies more frequently than do other children. In some cases, the movies lead to acts of delinquency. Mrs. Miller reports, but in most instances the movies are sought by delinquent children as an escape from the sordidness of life in the "slums" of the larger cities.

Mrs. Miller maintains that the movies form the "modern back yard" for the children of the city. The volume also contains data concerning the types of movies that children like and is full of illustrative material taken from the lives of the children.

OUR SOCIAL SNOBBERY.

The best laugh of the day is on the editor of that ultra-exclusive New York publication, the Social Register.

The editor finds himself—or maybe it's herself—forced to include the name of an ex-chambermaid in this year's volume, which is supposed to list only those who are "exclusive" by reason of their blue blood and the length of their family pedigree.

Adelaide Ingebreten, the former maid in the palatial home of William M. Willock, Sr., who recently eloped with young William M. Willock, Jr., is so included; but there's a catch in it, though, because the names of persons who marry social registerites are in many cases inserted the first year as a matter of record and omitted thereafter.

For this reason, apparently, the name of Gene Tunney fails to appear this year. Tunney was in the Register last year, following his marriage to Polly Lauder. And listed for the first time this year is the name of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who married Anne Morrow.

But regardless of the reason or how long it remains there, the name of Adelaide Ingebreten, the ex-chambermaid, now appears with those of the socially elite in this most haughty director of blue-bloodism. It is listed right alongside the bon ton debs and dowagers.

Apparently, neither the young Mrs. Willock nor her youthful husband gives a rap, as they are still enjoying their honeymoon just as other young couples do. Even the reported threat of disinheritance failed to mar their plans or their happiness, as they are going serenely on their way regardless of what others say—or do.

Really, we are strong for them. Not one objection has been raised against Miss Ingebreten, except that she was a chambermaid in the Willock household. A girl has just as much right to advance her position in life by a fortunate marriage as self-made man has to advance his position by battling obstacles and overcoming them. The world doesn't hesitate to hail and acclaim the young man who rises above his station; so why not the young woman?

After all, the marriage of young Willock and Miss Ingebreten is their own business. If she makes him a dutiful wife and he is a dutiful husband, nothing else really matters. And as for Miss Ingebreten having been a chambermaid, it might be well to recall that the original John Jacob Astor was at one time a fur trader who is said to have swapped whisky to the Indians for their pelts. There are also other examples.

After all, a listing in the Social Register means but little. In it, you will find many from high society families whose married life has been anything but happy and finally ended in the divorce courts.

If young Willock and his bride are a happy married couple, what difference does it make whether the former maid is in or out of the Social Register?

"UNTIL DEATH DO US PART."

An enterprising life insurance actuary in Birmingham, Ala., has figured out how much longer husbands and wives may expect to be together—of course, barring divorce. He has compiled a table of various ages, showing the number of years married couples of various ages may expect to travel along life's road until separated by death.

These sample figures, taken from his table, show his estimates of the length of married life remaining:

Present Ages	Married Life Expectation
Husband 20, wife 20	35.5 years
Husband 25, wife 20	33.6 years
Husband 30, wife 25	30.4 years
Husband 35, wife 30	27.3 years
Husband 40, wife 35	24.2 years
Husband 45, wife 40	20.9 years
Husband 50, wife 45	18.7 years
Husband 55, wife 50	15.5 years
Husband 60, wife 55	12.6 years

Consideration of these figures is bound to make the question of marriage, often decided lightly by young people in a moment of infatuation, seem more important. When a girl or a boy of 20, say, realizes that he or she is choosing a partner for the next 35 years (barring death or divorce, of course) the importance of the choice becomes apparent.

A little more consideration of this fact at the beginning might go far toward reducing the number of divorces in later years.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When all the other Tines found wee Clowny safe, they gathered 'round and asked him how he happened to be swimming in the sea. He smiled and said, "Well, 'twas like this: My plan to hide just went amiss. Somebody let the anchor down and thereby soaked poor me."

"The reason I was hiding in the anchor was to save my skin. The captain thought I stole a little cookie from the shelf. He cried, 'I'll spank you, little man.' I did the wisest thing and ran. You all would do the same thing if you had to save yourself."

"Why, sure we would," another cried. "It seems that you were wise to hide. 'Twas just poor luck that you were let down in the ocean blue. But, let's forget it. You're safe now. Please brush that frown off of your brow. You ought to feel real thankful that brave Scouty rescued you."

"I am," said Clowny. "Thanks a lot. And now I think, as like as not, the cross old captain may come out and spank me harder still. Let's run and hide. I've had enough of this boat trip. The captain's gruff and I would rather dodge him. I'm not looking for a thrill."

Into a corner they all went and 'bout a half an hour was spent in crouching down far out of sight. The moon then rose on high. Said Coppy, "Aw, let's walk around. I'm sure the captain's sleeping sound. I always hear him snoring when the stars are in the sky."

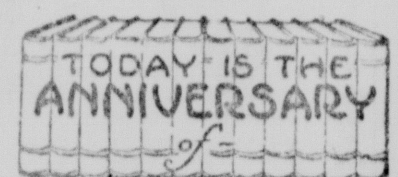

Just then a wee voice said, "Hello. How would you Tines like to go upon a very thrilling trip?" The Tines looked and saw a very cheerful looking elf. Said he, "I'll lead the way myself. I'll take you to the northland, where the weather's cold and raw."

EUROPEAN DRYS MAKE HEADWAY IN LIQUOR LAWS

But Means of Evasion Are Found Just as in America

BY WALLACE CARROLL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London. —(UP)—The American thirst is not the only one restricted by law.

A United Press survey of Europe has revealed numerous regulations and also has shown that methods of evading the liquor laws which Americans consider peculiarly their own are in vogue in half a dozen continental countries.

In Helsinki, the capital of "dry" Finland, the bootlegger still visits the hotel room of the thirsty traveler despite enforcement laws and anti-smuggling treaties with other countries on the Baltic.

In Brussels, where the law frowns on public drinking of spirituous liquors, the right kind of wink will get a cocktail at a bar run by an English Cockney.

And in Riga, the man who is persistent can secure a bottle for a week-end party, although liquor theoretically may not be sold in Latvia between Saturday noon and Monday morning.

The "Volsteads" of northern Europe have directed most of their attention to spirituous liquors, leaving beer and light wines practically unrestricted.

The Swede with a taste for whiskey, gin or brandy must have a "spirits book". Those who own a book may purchase a limited supply of spirits monthly from the alcohol monopoly.

Anyone whose habits are above suspicion is allowed a book. Nevertheless, evasions are frequent. Rum-running from the Baltic ports is a profitable occupation and holders of the spirits books have been known to sell their surplus.

The Case of Iceland
Iceland made a successful attempt at prohibition—for a time. Isolated from the rest of Europe, the law was easily enforced in the little island.

Diplomatic complications soon arose, however. Spain bought large quantities of Icelandic fish and expected Iceland to buy Spanish wine. Iceland still has a dry law, but Spanish wine is the life of an Icelandic party.

Wood alcohol almost became "popular" in Holland for a time. To save the nation, the government cut in half the excise tax on gin. Now the Dutch connoisseur is proud of the quality of his liquor, while the price fits his purse.

The British Isles have an elaborate system of liquor control. In Glasgow the "pubs" close at nine o'clock, in Edinburgh at ten. All the "pubs" in Scotland and Wales are closed on Sunday.

In London the varying regulations have given rise to the great outdoor sport known as "pub-crawling." In some districts the "pubs" close at 10, while others at 11. Clubs may sell liquor until midnight, and on special nights until one or two o'clock. Residents at hotels may obtain liquor all through the night.

The expert "pub-crawler" starts the night in a 10 o'clock district, moves on to a 10:30 "pub," then to one in an 11 o'clock district, then to his club and concludes with a sprint to his hotel room.

Less Saloons in Italy
Premier Mussolini of Italy is a water-drinker. The number of saloons in Italy has been reduced under his regime. Wild high school parties are unknown in Italy, for no alcoholic beverage may be served on school premises.

Nevertheless, the "two-bottle man" is far from a dodo in several countries. Temperance reformers have made little progress in France since the war. In the cafes of Vienna lager may be quaffed to the tune of a Johann Strauss waltz until dawn.

In Czechoslovakia, barrels of pill-sener wait the thirsty tourist. In Hungary, a wine country, drinking is said to be considered a patriotic duty. Besides, the Hungarians say the water is bad.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET PROPHETER
(Contributed)

Margaret Zimmerman Prophet was born June 14th, 1854, in Germany, and passed away at her daughter's home in Dixon Monday morning, December 2nd, at the age of 75 years, 5 months and 18 days.

She was only an infant of about 3 or 4 weeks when her parents came over with her to this country, making their home in Cumberland, Maryland, where she was reared. In the year 1871 she was united in holy wedlock to Fred Prophet. In the year 1878 they came to Dixon Ill. Her husband passed away about 33 years ago. She then kept house for about 20 years for the late Henry Gensmerman, in Franklin Grove and Ashton. It was at her home in Franklin Grove that the Ladies Aid of that congregation was organized and of which she was chosen president.

She was baptized in the Lutheran faith in Germany and was confirmed in Cumberland, Maryland, and became an active member of her church in Franklin Grove and wherever she lived.

About 3 years ago she fell and broke her hip, which because of her age never seemed to heal properly and gave her much trouble.

A year ago last August she suffered a paralytic stroke, and a week before Easter a second stroke. She became bedfast and was in the hospital for about 3 months. It was always a pleasure to call on her and comfort her as she was a devout Christian.

Those to mourn her passing are her six children: Mrs. Carrie Fisher of Milwaukee, Wis.; Mrs. Catherine May of Chicago; Mrs. Lloyd Duffy of Dixon; Fred and John of Milwaukee, and George of Dixon; six grandchildren, 1 sister, Mrs. Carrie Zink, of Cumberland, Md.; two brothers, Conrad, Zimmerman, of Cumberland, Md., and Henry Zimmerman, of Chicago. Her husband and one daughter and one son preceded her in death.

HUGH P. LAFFERTY
(Contributed)

Hugh Patrick Lafferty, son of the late Edward and Bridget Lafferty, was born in Amboy, March 16, 1879, and departed this life, November 28, 1929, (Thanksgiving morn), aged 50 years, eight months and 12 days. He received his education in the Amboy schools, later being employed at various places in that town.

On October 2, 1901, he was united in marriage to Mary Moon also of Amboy. This union was blessed with eight children, namely: William Ray, Charles Oliver, Hugh, Jr., John Henry, Mary Evelyn, Helen Lucile, Alice Ellen, Beatrice Irene.

For almost 25 years Mr. Lafferty has been in the employ of the C. B. & Q. railway company, the greater share of his time being spent as foreman at various places, the latter of which was at Amboy. Almost a year ago it became known that he was suffering with an ailment which necessitated his taking a rest, but in spite of all that medical skill and loving hands could do, it seemed to no avail, and on Friday, November 22, he suffered a stroke to his entire right side, which terminated in his death.

Mr. Lafferty was highly respected in the community in which he lived, being an honest, upright, energetic man, always looking to the interest of others as well as his own. He was a most kind and loving husband and father and a place is vacant in the home which never can be filled. He is survived by the widow and eight children all at home, and two brothers, John of Rockford and James of Belvidere and a sister Mrs. Lida Ward of Hinckley, Ill., and countless other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the home Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock conducted by Rev. E. W. Annabel of Mendota. Pall bearers chosen from the Modern Woodmen lodge of which he was a member were: Charles Powell, Ray Tubbs, Seymour Long, James Kelleher, E. H. Barlow and G. M. Finch.

Those from out of town attending the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. John Lafferty and son John, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Moon, sons and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Moon and son all of Rockford, Mr. and Mrs. James Lafferty of Belvidere, Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ward of Hinckley, Mrs. Beatrice Trowbridge, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. John Moran of Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. James Adams, Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wheeler and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Marlyn Reisinger and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Reisinger and daughter and Mr. Campbell, all of Aurora; Mrs. Joseph Hampton, Mendota, Mr. and Mrs. Mott, Beloit, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stevens, Ashton, Mrs. W. H. Kugler and son Ellis and wife of Harmon, Mrs. Fred Chandler of Freeport.

Etta Mary Underkoffler, daughter of Charles and Jennie Underkoffler, was born near Brookville, Ill., March 24, 1885 and died in the Dixon hospital Dec. 1, 1929 at 10:30 P. M. aged 44 years 8 months and 7 days.

On May 12, 1905, she was united in marriage to Shelby Kested at Dixon. To this happy union, 9 children were born to bless the home. The deceased lived in this community ever since her marriage with the exception of eleven years when the family resided in Minnesota. Mrs. Kested had not been well for years but her condition became serious in the last year. While living in Dixon she attended the Congregational church.

Those who remain to mourn the loss are the sorrow stricken husband, eight sons and daughters: Charles,

Harold, Pauline, Everett, Le Vern, Eleanor, Evelyn, Dona, Arlene, all at home. One child died when a year old: parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Underkoffler, two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Missman and Mrs. Lee Weaver of this vicinity and many other relatives and friends.

The funeral was conducted from the Preston Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 by Rev. A. D. Shaffer, pastor of the Grace Evangelical church. Interment in Oakwood cemetery.

FRENCH SOCIETY OPENS DRIVE ON WIDOW'S WEEDS

Duchess 'Uses Leads in Proposing Less
Sombre Style

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris. —(UP)—Because Paris was recently dubbed the city of gloom, from the fondness of its women for wearing black, a first step is being made to abolish the widow's veil.

Widows themselves are back of the movement. They claim the widow's weeds in France are far too long and lugubrious and are not at all in keeping with the French reputation for chicness. Now the Duchess d'Uzes, President of the Society for Women's Suffrage, who is herself a widow, has declared her earnest support for the campaign.

The Duchess was widowed 50 years ago, but she has always worn widow's crepe although she now freely admits the style is entirely out of keeping with modern life. She bases her argument more on utility than appearance, claiming that in the crowded streets, in the automobiles and subways the long veil is a nuisance.

Since the Duchess is one of the most respected leaders of social life in France, it is expected that fashion will follow her advice, while the fashion houses are expected to jump at the suggestion with its possibilities of neat, new designs in mourning headgear for widows.

But although the mourning veil may be abolished for long-time wear, it will not go entirely. The suggestion is put forward by widows that it would be appropriate to wear the veil on the day of the funeral, but even then it could be more abbreviated than the style that fashion has dictated for so long.

Try To Germinate
Oats 100 Yr. Old
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5.—(UP)—An ancient pincushion containing two dozens grains of oats that grew, perhaps 100 years ago, in England, has provided the State Department of Agriculture with an interesting experiment; it was revealed here today.

The pincushion was made by Mary Ann Charlton-Hitchcock when she was in her teens. That was in London back near the beginning of the last century. In making the cushion she filled it with bran and threw in a handful of oat grains.

When her daughter emigrated to the United States she brought the pincushion to Springfield with her. The name of the daughter is Mrs. Mary Spurway. She is 85 years old.

Either through accident or the ravages of time the pincushion's contents became known recently. In intermingling with the bran, some two dozen grains of oats were found, and for purposes of scientific research, were presented to the seed laboratory of the division of plant industry, Illinois Department of Agriculture.

The oats with a history are on display at the International Hay and Grain Show at Chicago this week. Albert C. Wilson, chief seed analyst of the State Department of Agriculture, plans an attempt to germinate and nurture the grains that have been dormant so long.

He plans to take them to the University of Illinois where the botanical specialists will plant them. If any of the grains have retained their vitality throughout the century and grow, perhaps a new strain of oats, containing virtues that will make the seed of value, will result from the importation of this pincushion when Illinois was young.

SIX SQUABBLE OVER MILLIONS LEFT BY AUNT

Relatives and Secretary
Who Produces Two
Wills Involved

By Stewart Brown
United Press Staff Correspondent
Lyons—UPI—Six highly titled persons fiercely squabbling over an aunt's $2,000,000 estate, are causing the French authorities large worries. At the present moment the case is in a hopeless muddle.

Less than a year ago Mme. Mikhail Pasha, Italian wife of a Mussulman, died suddenly leaving no will and property valued at $2,000,000. Her six titled nieces and nephews immediately laid various claims to the property, but were frustrated in their actions by their aunt's Greek secretary.

The Greek has produced several wills from strange portions of the deceased's wardrobe. Handwriting experts, however, have declared each one spurious and so complicated matters that the consulates of Italy, Hungary and Greece are entangled in the affair.

The relatives are Baron Oppenheim of Paris, the Italian Counts Patrice and Michel of Zogheb, Countesses Alice and Dagmar of Zogheb, and the Marquise Sacha of Reverseaux, mother of a former French ambassador to Austria. The seventh and confusing figure in the battle is Mendel, the Greek secretary of the rich aunt.

Immediately following the aunt's death, the secretary produced a will bequeathing him approximately $120,000 of her fortune but making no disposition of the remainder. The relatives arranged a friendly council meeting and invited two famous European handwriting experts to examine the document. They both pronounced it a forgery.

Inheritance Laws in Doubt
Not a whit abashed, the Greek forthwith produced another will in which the entire estate was left to Count Patrice. Unluckily for the count, experts found that the document, which was dated May 7, 1927, mentioned the nieces by their husband's names while at that date neither was even engaged to be married.

The Greek Consulate has been insisting to the French authorities that the first will is genuine and the money should go to the Greek, while the Italian Consulate protests that the second document is the only true will and that Count Patrice should receive the money.

Furthermore, the Italian Consulate, acting in behalf of Count Patrice, demanded that the French deliver the lawyer's representing the other nieces and nephews. The police, however, are said to have found a letter in which the Greek secretary informed Count Patrice that in case a will were found in his favor he hoped the Count would remember him with $120,000.

The other relatives pointed their fingers in shame at Count Patrice and the secretary and renewed their efforts to obtain the estate for themselves.

As Mme. Mikhail Pasha was an Italian married to a Mussulman and died in French territory, the authorities are puzzled whether to apply the French, Italian, or Mussulman inheritance laws. If the latter is followed, the women members of the family will not receive a penny. And so the family battle goes on.

KEEP THE AIR IN MOTION
By Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cummings, United States Public Health Service.
Washington, D. C.

This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Ventilation has been the subject of much research by the U. S. Public Health Service as well as certain other health and research organizations. It has been found that the most comfortable temperature as well as the most healthful, one is between 68 and 70 degrees. There should be a slight amount of air motion in all rooms such as is produced by a small window opening. If the temperature is kept between 68 and 70 degrees the moisture of the air, or as it is generally known, the humidity, will be kept at a satisfactory point from the health viewpoint.

Scientific studies have shown that a room temperature over 70 degrees may not be healthful because the overheating produces a slight increase in body temperature as well as the pulse rate and the breathing rate; because the blood pressure falls, and there may be a decrease in the efficiency of the blood circulation system. Studies have been made in schools in which the rooms were kept at 68.5 and 69.5 degrees. They showed that there was 70 per cent more colds among the pupils in the higher temperature rooms than among those in the rooms maintained at 66.5 degrees.

The proper way to ventilate the home is to provide an accurate thermometer in each living room. This should always be maintained at 68 to 70 degrees by regulating the supply of heat and by keeping the windows open slightly. The slightly opened window will produce a sufficient air movement in the room so as to be stimulating and refreshing and the room will feel comfortable and not stuffy. With a little experience it is possible to maintain these conditions without much effort, and for persons in good health the home will be very comfortable.

The ventilation of the sleeping or bedroom is different from the living room. Here the body is at complete rest and covered with heavy bedding which serves to keep it warm. Under these conditions it is possible to take advantage of the full outdoor air by having the windows wide open and having the air circulate about the room. This air movement is very beneficial. It stimulates the nerves in the skin and invigorates the body. Keep all the windows in the bedroom open at night, and keep covered with sufficient warm bedding so that you do not feel cold.

KEEP THE AIR IN MOTION
By Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cumming, United States Public Health Service, Washington, D. C.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

Ventilation has been the subject of much research by the U. S. Public Health Service as well as certain other health and research organizations. It has been found that the most comfortable temperature as well as the most healthful, one is between 68 and 70 degrees. There should be a slight amount of air motion in all rooms such as is produced by a small window opening. If the temperature is kept between 68 and 70 degrees the moisture of the air, or as it is generally known, the humidity, will be kept at a satisfactory point from the health viewpoint.

Scientific studies have shown that a room temperature over 70 degrees may not be healthful because the overheating produces a slight increase in body temperature as well as the pulse rate and the breathing rate; because the blood pressure falls, and there may be a decrease in the efficiency of the blood circulation system. Studies have been made in schools in which the rooms were kept at 68.5 and 69.5 degrees. They showed that there was 70 per cent more colds among the pupils in the higher temperature rooms than among those in the rooms maintained at 66.5 degrees.

The proper way to ventilate the home is to provide an accurate thermometer in each living room. This should always be maintained at 68 to 70 degrees by regulating the supply of heat and by keeping the windows open slightly. The slightly opened window will produce a sufficient air movement in the room so as to be stimulating and refreshing and the room will feel comfortable and not stuffy. With a little experience it is possible to maintain these conditions without much effort, and for persons in good health the home will be very comfortable.

The ventilation of the sleeping or bedroom is different from the living room. Here the body is at complete rest and covered with heavy bedding, which serves to keep it warm. Under these conditions it is possible to take advantage of the full outdoor air by having the windows wide open and having the air circulate about the room. This air movement is very beneficial. It stimulates the nerves in the skin and invigorates the body. Keep all the windows in the bedroom open at night, and keep covered with sufficient warm bedding so that you do not feel cold.

Not Up To Schools

To Lead Government

Champaign-Urbana, Ill., Dec. 5.—(UP)—It is not the business of universities to tell the people how to run the government—that is for statesmen and the people themselves to decide according to David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois.

"Statesmanship is an art, not a science, and therefore I do not believe that University departments and political and social science conferences can tell the people how to run the government," Kinley said.

"Statesmanship is the application of sound judgment to a variety of facts of very different character—economic, political, social, and what not, beyond the purview of a professor in any department of political science, economics, or sociology or history."

"I am a believer in conferences for the discussion, by these experts in political sciences, in economics, in sociology, and what not, of important topics of public action from the point of view of such specialists. But it is the statesman's duty to assemble the results of discussion in all these fields and no specialist in any of these departments can do this as such specialist."

"Conference on political, social, and philosophical topics, are, after all, merely discussions of individual opinions. They are valuable for the enlightenment, but only sometimes for practical purposes."

The speakers consist of Eddie Goldberg, St. Louis and Johnny Semas of the Bermudas.

In the bantam clash, Jackie Davis, local favorite, will meet Roy Logan, Litchfield.

MANY TRADES IN PROSPECT MAJOR LEAGUERS STATE

Some Deals Have Been Completed Already
It Is Announced

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 5—(UP)—Many major league trades are forecast at the meetings of two leagues at New York next week if the mood of a majority of the ten major league managers at the National Association meeting is a fair indication.

Polled by the United Press today, most of the ten managers here indicated willingness to talk trade, and many of them have deals all ready to spring in the major leagues.

Two major league clubs, the Indians and Cards, have purchased high-priced minor league stars. Cleveland completed a deal for Bob Seeds, 22-year-old outfielder, late last night, buying him from the Kansas City American Association club for a large sum and one player who must be satisfactory to Kansas City.

Bill Evans, business manager of the Indians, feels that inasmuch as Seeds is a right handed hitter, and seven of the eight Cleveland outfielders are left-handed hitters, the young outfielder will plug a weak gap in the club.

"At any rate, the other clubs won't be so sure they can south paw us to death now," said Evans.

Cleveland is anxious to land a shortstop, and Evans said he would try to make a deal for a first class infielder in New York if possible.

Cubs Buy Pitcher
The Chicago Cubs paid a fancy price for Malcolm Moss, young south-paw pitcher. They gave a sum said to be $35,000 and one player, for Moss, who won less than he lost for the Louisville American Association club last season.

Manager Joe McCarthy believes Moss may be the southpaw the Cubs have been looking for for several years.

Dan Howley, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is one major league manager ready to entertain any kind of an offer for players.

Yesterday he sent outfielder Bill Zitsmann to the Newark International League club in exchange for infielder Wescott Kingdom, who in turn was shipped to the Reds' farm at Columbus, O. With Heimann and Bob Meusel on hand, Howley figures his outfield is pretty well bolstered.

Jake May, a pitcher the Cubs are said to have been dickering for, is not for sale or trade unless the other club is willing to pay dearly, Howley intimated.

Braves Seek Trades
Bill McKechnie, who has moved from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Boston Braves, told the United Press he would trade any player on any kind of an offer for players.

Yesterday he sent outfielder Bill Zitsmann to the Newark International League club in exchange for infielder Wescott Kingdom, who in turn was shipped to the Reds' farm at Columbus, O. With Heimann and Bob Meusel on hand, Howley figures his outfield is pretty well bolstered.

"All I can say about our team now is that we'll have nine men when the season opens," said McKechnie. "I don't know who they'll be, but we'll have a fighting nine."

Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillies is seeking a catcher to replace Bill Lerian, who died as a result of injuries in an automobile accident several months ago.

"I've got as good a club as anybody in the National League and we'll be fighting for the pennant this year," said Shotton.

Gabby Street, new manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, believes the acquisition of Sparky Adams, bought from Pittsburgh, will strengthen the Cardinals' infield considerably. He plans to play Bottomley at first, Adams at second, Gilbert at short and Frisch at third.

The Cardinals are one of the many big league clubs on the lookout for additional pitching strength.

Pirates Satisfied
Pittsburgh is not contemplating any deals, according to Manager Jess. Stories that Burrell Grimes is in bad with the management, and will be placed on the trading block are erroneous, according to Ens, who said he expected Burrell to be one of his mainstays.

"We are pretty well fixed and could open the season on a few weeks' notice," he said.

Donnie Bush, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, believes two minor league players, Outfielder Smead Jolley from San Francisco, and Pitcher Vic Frazier from Dallas, will add strength to the White Sox.

Bush said he didn't have any deals in the fire, but expected to sound out several clubs in New York next week.

Vice-president L. C. McEvoy of the St. Louis Browns said his club was open for a deal.

"We are clearing the decks here and expect to get some real action in New York next week," he said.

Bill Killier, new manager of the Browns, is present, and the New York Yankees are here in full force, with Col. Jacob Ruppert, Secretary

Ed Barrow, Manager Bob Shawkey and a couple of scouts on deck.

Thus far the Yanks have made only one deal here, sending Frank (Bots) Nekola, the former Holy Cross southpaw to the St. Paul club.

Four American League managers and two National League leaders are absent—Walter Johnson of Washington, Bucky Harris of Detroit, Connie Mack of the Athletics, Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox, John J. McGraw of the New York Giants and Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn.

Robinson was scheduled to arrive here today to appear before Judge K. M. Landis, in the case of Nick Culp who is seeking outright release from Brooklyn.

SATURDAY IS CROWDED WITH GRID CONTESTS

Several Battles Of Importance are Scheduled
For Week End

BY L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Dec. 5—(UP)—The 1929 football season is not ended, despite popular belief to the contrary, and Saturday is crowded with a dozen games, some of them of real importance.

Four of this Saturday's contests offer thrills as abiding as any of the season's best. The top attractions are:

Georgia vs. Georgia Tech at Athens.

Tennessee vs. South Carolina at Knoxville.

Florida vs. Oregon at Miami.

Georgia Tech, after four losses and two wins in games with important southern elevens, will face Georgia, a team good enough to have beaten Yale and three strong southern elevens, while losing two southernland games. The intense rivalry between the two schools and their home cities, Atlanta and Athens, will prop the game to classic proportions.

Tennessee, unbeaten and tied only by Kentucky, is in for a great struggle with South Carolina, despite the spotty record made by the Palmetto state boys. A fine side attraction of this game will be the appearance of Gene McEver, the Vols All-American halfback.

The Florida-Oregon contest carries the spangles of an inter-sectional affair and what a game it should be! The Gators won six and lost but one Southern Conference game, while Oregon had a record of four and one in the Pacific Coast Conference season.

Western Maryland, one of the few unbeaten and untied teams of the country, will face a natural and determined rival in Maryland in their game at Baltimore. North Carolina, beaten only by Georgia, should run rough-shod over Duke.

National Miners In Effort To End Work
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5—(AP)—Illinois coal mining circles—operators and mine workers—today pondered over the efforts of the National Miners Union to call a general strike in all of the state's mines.

Harry Fishwick, president of the Illinois District of the United Mine Workers of America, said last night this organization would vigorously oppose such action.

Fishwick said the strike had been called to destroy the power of the union which he heads in this state by smashing the system of the check-off, which, he said, is a part of the miner's wage paid directly to the United Mine Workers by the mine operators.

United Mine Workers Union officials regarded the strike call of the opposing union in a light vein; they said they "expect few, if any, miners to respond to the Communist call for a general strike."

Announcement that the National Miners Union would call a strike was made by Henry Corbushy, state secretary, at West Frankfort until recently John H. Watt of Springfield controlled the National Miners group but he was recently ousted by Pat Toohy of Pittsburgh, Communist agent in America.

Fishwick said the National Miners Union was controlled by the Communist party.

INDUSTRIAL CAGE LOOP ORGANIZED; SCHEDULE READY

First Game In Gym Of New High School On Wednesday Eve

The first game of the Industrial League basketball league which has been reorganized after several successful seasons of activity in Dixon winter sports will be played in the gymnasium of the new high school next Wednesday evening, Dec. 11. The drawings for games was held at a meeting of the captains of the various teams represented in the league at a meeting held at the south central school building last evening. All of the Industrial league games will be played in the new high school gymnasium and this feature of the season's schedule promises to more than double the interest in the cage sport.

The basketball fans of Dixon and vicinity will have an opportunity to witness all of the teams of the league in action on the opening night of the schedule. There are six teams in the league this season and all of these will have a try at the new basketball court next Wednesday evening. The list of teams entering the league are as follows:

American Cab & Body Co., Illinois Northern Utilities Co., Co. A. I. N. G., Merchants, Brown Shoe Co., Reynolds Wire Co.

The pairings for the first play as drawn last evening brought the American Cab & Body Co. team to open the evening bill against the I. N. U. Co. five, starting promptly at 7 o'clock. This game will be followed by the Co. A. I. N. G. and Merchants clash at the baskets. The Brown Shoe Co. and Reynolds Wire Co. drew for the final game on the program. The athletic department of the high school will furnish officials for the games.

Today plans were being made for special observance of the opening of the beautiful new gymnasium, with a seating capacity of 1600 persons without placing the special bleachers on the floor. It is expected that a band will be present at the opening and there is little doubt but that the gymnasium will carry for a capacity attendance on the opening of the Industrial league schedule.

Three Veterans To Carry Golf Battle
BY PAUL B. ZIMMERMAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles, Dec. 5—(AP)—Three veterans of the links, on whose brows at one time rested the Professional Golfers' Association crown, today will carry their campaign for another title to the third round of match play over the Hillcrest Course in the annual tournament, bent on repeating.

Heading the list of yesterday's eight survivors, and outstanding among the former champions who won their way through the second 36 hole round, are Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente professional and defending titleholder; Walter Hagen, five times victor in the event, and Gene Sarazen, New York, who boasts a brace of P. G. A. triumphs.

Of the five others who stroked their way through the second round of match play, only one, Al Espino of Chicago, ever reached the final bracket.

The reign of this trio of elite professionals is destined to be brief, for before this day is done either Sarazen or Diegel will have been left behind. Diegel, by virtue of his remarkable steady game, coupled with his great background, is favored to come through against Gene.

The great "Hag" also is picked to parade through the third bracket, despite the fact that his opponent,

Tony Manero, New York, has displayed remarkable form. Matched with Watrous, Espinosa, because of his runnerup position last season, is favored to come through today's match. Farrel clashes with Wood in the other duel.

Centralization Of Home Economics Plan

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5—(UP)—Centralization of the home-economics departments of the high schools in Illinois, and the enveloping of a wider scope of treated subjects are the basic reasons for plans of many secondary institutions of either housing the department in larger quarters or the building of small rooms adjacent to the school, it was learned at the offices of the State Department of Public Instruction here today.

Cost of the establishing of the new quarters depends entirely upon the simplicity or elaborateness of equipment, number of students that have to be provided for, type and quality of articles chosen, and the discounts which may be secured.

Because the home economics department establishes standards and accomplishment, it was pointed out, added significance has been given the course in high schools recently. This is true regardless of how elaborate or simple the facilities of the department may be.

Space set aside for the department will depend upon the size of the classes, and the facilities will be based upon the number of students enrolled.

In a majority of the schools, which offer home economics as a part of the curriculum, classes are held in various sections of the building, or are scattered in different places on the same floor. Under the new scheme, such conditions will not prevail.

Housing of the department in separate buildings, where it is not included as a full day subject, will provide for the holding of classes of some related subjects.

Such subjects as art, general science, physiology, and civics could be taught in classrooms set aside for the economics department, it was pointed out.

The modified unit kitchen arrangement is supplanting the old hollow square laboratory of the old school. The old swinging chairs are fast being replaced with more comfortable chairs with form fitting backs. In cases where limited expenditures prevail, the barest of essentials are provided the first year and allowance provided for the budget the next year to care for other features.

Eliminate Waste In State Institutions
Springfield, Ill., Dec. 5—(AP)—Establishment of a perpetual inventory system at all state institutions, through which waste will be eliminated and fraud virtually impossible has been ordered by Governor Louis L. Emmerson. The system has already been installed in four institutions and inventories are in progress at a half dozen others preparatory to putting the system into effect. Savings which will result are expected to run into several hundred thousand dollars yearly.

Under the system previously in effect, institution managers and storekeepers had only a faint idea of the supplies on hand. As a result, they duplicated requisitions from quarter to quarter and while some supplies ran low, huge surpluses were built up in others. In a large number of cases foodstuffs were allowed to spoil while the state expended large sums for supplies when it already had the needed material.

Governor Emmerson shortly after taking office assigned an investigator from the department of finance to work with a similar representative of the department of welfare to put in the accounting system at the state institutions and place them on an efficient basis. At one state normal school, 10,000 gallons of fruit and vegetables were found on the shelves. At one of the state hospitals caring for 2,000 patients, 12,300 suits of winter underwear were found in the store room. At still another institution, the investigators found 220 barrels of soap chips or more than a year's supply. Another instance reported was the finding of 7,000 bushels of potatoes at one of the hospitals which was sufficient for a six months period. Almost half of the potatoes had spoiled.

Following reports on conditions, accountants for the department of finance devised a system of book-keeping which can be handled by any clerk and which shows at the close of each day the exact amount of supplies in the institution. This was followed by a second inventory system designed for institution farms.

While little extra work is involved in keeping the system in operation it takes considerable time to install it. The first requisite is a complete inventory of everything on hand at an institution, which is a little city within itself. Sufficient supplies are purchased each quarter to care for from 2,000 to 3,000 persons depending on the population of the institution, each institution has its own drug store, grocery, meat shop, laundry, clothing and notions shop and ice plant.

KONJOLA GAVE CHICAGO LADY BIG SURPRISE

Young Matron Had Tried
Eight Other Remedies—
Then Found New and Different Medicine.

MRS. BERTHA HAGEDORN.

"I suffered for two years with indigestion," said Mrs. Bertha Hagedorn, 5619 South Oakley avenue, Chicago. "No matter how light my diet, gas formed and painful bloating was sure to follow. I was so constipated that my entire system suffered from accumulated poisons and impurities. Cathartics brought but temporary relief. I tried eight other medicines before my friends urged me to take Konjola."

"I had not taken one bottle before my constipated condition began to improve. With continued treatment my digestion so improved that gases no longer formed and I was free from bloating pains. In a short time I was eating whatever I wished of nourishing foods. My general health soon became better than it had been in years. I now sleep well, my nerves are calm and steady, and I am gaining weight. I shall always praise Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Dixon, Ill., at FORD HOPKINS DRUG STORE, 123 First St., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section—Adv.

KAVATONE PUTS RHEUMATICS ON THEIR FEET

Wonderful Effect of Kavatone that Actually Enable the Helpless to Go Back to Work.

Rheumatic sufferers are certainly going wild with joy at the discovery of Kavatone Herb Remedy. For the first time they have found something they can absolutely depend upon to rid them of the pain of Rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, or neuritis. Kavatone works like a charm fast and powerful, but harmless even to children. No alcohol, no opiates or other narcotics. By all means make a trial of this remarkable remedy that gets the helpless out of bed.

"Kavatone surely proved a god-send to me and I can thank it alone for restoring my health," is the grateful statement given to the Kavatone man by Mrs. Leon Perry who resides on Route 5, Kalamazoo, Mich., who has been troubled with stomach trouble and rheumatism for the past 10 years.

MRS. LEON PERRY.

"I know I owe my good health to this medicine and will now use it as a family remedy at my home. I was the first one to use it as I was and had been suffering for years with stomach trouble, rheumatism, neuritis and a general rundown condition, seemed like everything was wrong and nothing gave me any relief to speak of. My food, instead of digesting, would lay in the stomach to sour and ferment, gas formed and caused sharp shooting pains around the heart. At times my stomach would swell and burn like it was on fire, then I was troubled with rheumatism and neuritis in my shoulders, legs and arms. This constant pain naturally upset my nerves and when night came I simply could not sleep. I heard so much about Kavatone Herb Tonic, that I made up my mind to give it a trial. The results were even greater than I expected, and today I feel better in every way than I have for years. My stomach no longer causes me any trouble. I eat better than I have for a long time, no more trouble from gas or in digestion and the rheumatic and neuritic pains are gone. It was also troubled with headaches and they, too, have been removed. I have found this medicine to be fine for constipation, and everyone in the family now uses this medicine with good results. "Yes, it is worth the praise I can give it and is one medicine I feel safe in recommending to everyone. This great medicine is made from Mother's Nature herbs."

The Kavatone man is at The Ford Hopkins Co., where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. The famous Kavatone figure (an ingenious human torso showing every organ of the body) is used in this demonstration and everyone is cordially invited to see and study this figure, an experience which will be interesting and instructive.

More Kiwanians Is Aim Of The Council

Chicago, Dec. 4—(UP)—A drive for increased membership in Kiwanis clubs was the chief topic considered at the annual council meeting of the organization here today. The meeting, which is being attended by about 100 executives, including all governors-elect from the United States and Canada, will continue through to Saturday.

According to Alfred C. Callen, Urbana, governor-elect of the Illinois-Eastern Iowa Kiwanis district, there are ninety-five Kiwanis clubs with a membership of 5215 in his district. Callen, who was elected at Peoria this fall, takes office Jan. 1.

Callen declared the drive for increased membership will be nationwide.

"The future of Kiwanis depends on a large quality membership and constructive activities," he declared. "In the past year the organization in Illinois has completed thousands of social and civic activities by helping the underprivileged child, vocational guidance, citizenship, arboreal relations and educational pursuits."

"The three essentials for Kiwanis success are the ideals of Kiwanis, the membership and valuable community activities."

Horace W. McDavid, Decatur, international president, presided at today's meeting.

In reviewing the work of the organization for the year McDavid declared that there are now 1825 Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada. He said that the Kiwanis now have a total membership of 102,000.

The council of the organization, he said, is the legislative body empowered to confer and advise with the board of trustees on all official matters.

Heart Disease Is Most Fatal Malady

Chicago, Dec. 5—(UP)—Heart disease is killing more Americans today than is any other single malady, according to Dr. Charles H. Mayo, director of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. Dr. Mayo addressed the Chicago Association of Commerce at a luncheon yesterday.

He asserted that 186 persons out of every 100,000 are dying of cardiac ailments.

"Thirty-five years ago tuberculosis killed 200 out of every 100,000 persons in this country each year," Dr. Mayo said. "These figures have been reduced to from 70 to 86 in each 100,000. High blood pressure and hardening of the arteries are the menaces to life today."

Dr. Mayo said each person has certain inherited tendencies and his length of life will resemble greatly the life of his forefathers. The diseases dangerous to an individual are the very ones of which his parents died, he said.

DOCTORS DELAY OPERATION FOR SENATOR WRIGHT

Official Is Suffering From Kidney Ailment Is At Mayo Clinic

As a result of a consultation held a half-hour before the operation was scheduled, five specialists Tuesday afternoon decided at the last moment to postpone indefinitely the operation on Senator H. G. Wright of DeKalb, a patient in the Colonial hospital, Rochester, Minn. The consultation was held shortly after the arrival of Dr. R. A. Wright of DeKalb and after developments in the condition of Senator Wright were such that it was deemed best to postpone the operation.

Dr. Wright returned to DeKalb Wednesday after a hurried trip to Rochester, leaving on Monday evening. He stated today that his brother is "feeling reasonably good and that his condition is progressing satisfactorily." That Senator Wright is showing an improvement is noted from the fact that he was allowed to sit in a wheel chair Tuesday afternoon. He was also allowed to walk for a short time with the aid of crutches.

Dr. Wright is suffering from a kidney ailment. Examinations made the latter part of last week by the Mayo Brothers clinic specialists resulted in the plans being made for an operation Tuesday afternoon. Dr. R. A. Wright was asked to be present for the operation, leaving DeKalb Monday night.

Tuesday afternoon a change was noted in the condition of Senator Wright and after a consultation between five specialists, it was decided not to operate. An X-ray examination will be made again today to determine if it will then be necessary to operate.

May Return Soon Senator Wright will either undergo an operation on his kidneys within the next week or will return to DeKalb, his brother stated. Senator Wright walked with the aid of crutches for the first time Tuesday since his knee was fractured in an automobile accident four weeks ago. He is now able to sit up in a wheel chair and will be allowed to use the crutches a short period each day unless his condition changes. The knee injury is showing a very good recovery.

Adopts Armenian To Act As A Protector

New York, Dec. 5—(AP)—Because she is lonely and feels the need of a protector in her old age, a 69-year-old widow who has $750,000 in property and a yearly income of $25,000, has adopted a 27-year-old college student as her son.

Mrs. Lisa W. Sanford, a descendant of an old New York family, said the adoption of Baronie Baron, an Armenian, had the full approval of her daughter, now on her way home from abroad. She explained the daughter would continue to be the principal beneficiary at her death.

Baron, who came to America in 1921, said his parents and an elder brother had been massacred before his eyes by Turks. He is a student at Columbia University and became acquainted with Mrs. Sanford through the Rev. Dr. Sidney Usher, Episcopalian minister at Welfare Island, where Mrs. Sanford was engaged in philanthropic work.

Survivors Of Ship Wreck Are Rescued

A message from the freighter Tongate, reaching here yesterday, told of the rescue. The message merely announced that all the survivors had been rescued. Whether all were aboard the Tongate was not stated.

The Avenging Parrot

© 1929 by NEA Service, Inc. (b) Anne Austin, author of — The Black Pigeon, Dual Wives, etc.

THIS HAS HAPPENED Between 1145 and 1215 Saturday, June 29, Mrs. Emma Hogarth, inmate of Mrs. Rhodes' boarding house, is thought to have been ROXANE DUNDEE, "scab" detective, assisted LIEUT. STRAWN in the investigation of the case. The boarding house, where Mrs. Hogarth resided, was the scene of a fight between her and a man named Magnus.

CORA BARKER, theater pianist, thought to have had an affair with Sevier, is arrested as a material witness. Other boarders under suspicion are HENRY DUNDEE, NORMAN SALTER, and STEPHEN, practically a bankrupt who had quarreled with Mrs. Hogarth. LIEUT. MAGNUS, an American, is also under suspicion.

From papers secured in Mrs. Hogarth's trunk, Dundee learns that she had a month's affair with her son, a man named Magnus, who was a material witness in the case.

FIN, a con-man, was arrested for having turned up his living in the case. He is in the Rhodes house.

Dundee is excited over his find of an old envelope which had held a letter from Sevier to Magnus, and that he is in the Rhodes house.

Dundee is excited over his find of an old envelope which had held a letter from Sevier to Magnus, and that he is in the Rhodes house.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

"Who—me? Speak to Cora?" Sevier echoed scornfully. "All I could think of was getting away from there! I didn't want to be mixed up in no murder! Cora knew I'd always drawn the line at that, and if she hadn't been so busy trying to keep out of trouble her self, she'd have told you that."

"She did say you never planned to murder Mrs. Hogarth in order to rob her," Dundee assured him. "And she did tell us that you appeared at the window. She said she never saw you again after you told her good-by at the theater."

"She didn't try to frame me? You're not kidding me?" Sevier asked so strangely that Dundee was at a loss to read his tone or expression.

"Cora admitted only that she was afraid to see you, because you had asked her to help you rob Mrs. Hogarth. And she told us about being in that room herself. She says she knocked on Mrs. Hogarth's door, after seeing her light was on, and when she received no answer, became afraid that the old lady had had a heart attack, opened the door and found her dead. Cora was looking for a page in Mrs. Hogarth's diary—the entry in which Mrs. Hogarth had recorded your visit to Cora's room the night of May 18."

Sevier stared stupidly for a moment, then he became oddly violent. "Say! Don't let her kid you! She was in on this, or I'm—I'm—"

He caught himself up sharply, gasped, then mopped his wet forehead on his coat sleeve.

"Did Cora see you?" Dundee interrupted.

"I didn't know then whether she did or not, because I ducked when I saw her lift her head and turn her face toward the window. Guess debt, incurred to prosecute war, outlays for pensions, hospitalization and other expenses on behalf of veterans of former wars and for national defense, the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and National Guard.

All of the government's extensive activities, whether it be the public health, Indian affairs, aid to labor and agriculture or the far-flung public buildings program will consume only thirteen per cent of the Federal outlay. The total recommended for all these activities is only somewhat in excess of half a billion dollars.

Less Than Last Year The total recommended to be spent next year is somewhat under that for the present fiscal year, not counting any appropriations that may be made to carry on the work of the Federal Farm Board.

In comparison with the total sum recommended, the comparatively insignificant outlay of $300,307,860 is for the executive, legislative and judicial branches, fiscal administration and control of banking, foreign relations, administration of territories and dependencies, civil pensions, to assume the huge post office deficit and for kindred activities. Approximately $14,500,000 may be spent for education; $51,750,000 for agriculture (exclusive of the new farm relief fund); $16,500,000 for aids to labor; $15,000,000 for aids to industry and trade and $57,300,000 for building up the Merchant Marine. The sum of $246,000,000 for public buildings throughout the country is the largest single item outside of those for outlays pertaining to national defense, the public debt and veterans expenses.

Custer's Comrade Was Buried Today

East St. Louis, Ill., Dec. 5—(UP)—Funeral services were held here today for Charles H. Bishop, 75, who fought alongside General Custer in the Indian Wars.

Bishop died at his home here of a heart attack. He had been in ill health several months.

WAR COSTS TAKE BIGGEST PART OF FEDERAL BUDGET

Hoover Gives the Country Budget At a Glance For Busy Readers

Washington, Dec. 5—(AP)—President Hoover today gave the public his federal "budget at a glance" for those who have not the time to wade through the staggering compilation of figures which accompanied his budget message to congress.

The statement of today showed that approximately 72 cents of every dollar to be spent by the Federal government during the next fiscal year must go to pay for past wars and preparedness for any that may occur in the future.

Only eight cents of every dollar will be spent to keep the actual machinery of the government functioning; thirteen cents will be devoted to the social aids and subsidies, and the remaining seven cents to maintaining the government's fiscal affairs.

Of the $3,390,445,231 which Congress has been asked to appropriate for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, the sum of $2,733,213,283 must be provided for payment of principal and interest on the public

I must have made some little noise, like taking a sharp breath when I saw that the old lady was dead. But when I saw in the papers Monday that she'd been arrested as a material witness against me, I thought she must have seen me and would be doing her best to put the rope around my neck, instead of her own."

"And what is your opinion, Sevier?" Dundee asked pleasantly. "Do you think Cora Barker murdered Mrs. Hogarth?"

"I don't think she'd hardly had time, because I came up the trellis the minute I thought she'd got to her room," Sevier answered slowly. "Did you yourself have time to notice whether the room was in disorder or not?"

"I didn't realize then I was noticing, but by the time I got back down the trellis it came to me that it couldn't have been Cora because the room was all in a mess—things thrown out of the trunk and desk and clothes closet, but what I thought she was doing was covering up the tracks of the man who did it. I figured it out later that she wouldn't help me, because I wouldn't marry her, but she'd help the guy that would. She was going around with a silly-looking little bird named Magnus."

"What do you want to do, boy?" Commissioner O'Brien asked, laying a hand on the young detective's shoulder. "I think you've done a good job so far. Being polite is a new kind of third degree, but I'm a son of a gun if it don't work! What do you want now? Going to take his pulse on one of those lie detectors, like a story-book detective?"

Dundee laughed, but he flushed with gratitude at his uncle's praise and faith in his ability. "Maybe I'll get around to that later, Uncle Pat, but right now I want to do nothing more absurd than to bring Cora Barker down here to face Sevier. I have a hunch that if Sevier is lying the truth will come out when those two come face to face."

Dundee did not press the point then. "You caught the train and left it—where? And where have you spent these three days?"

"None of your damned business!" the prisoner snarled.

"I conclude then, Sevier, that you somehow managed to put in a long distance call from a coin box before leaving Hamilton, and that you arranged a refuge for yourself not very far away. I also feel quite sure that your protector was a girl whom you care for a great deal, and that she finally persuaded you to come back to Hamilton and give yourself up. That is true, isn't it?"

"You think you're smart, don't you?" the man snarled. "Well, think what you please, but I'll see you in hell before I'll tell you anything else. I've told you the truth about Saturday night, up to 1 o'clock, and that's as far as I'm going to tell . . . And I want a drink of cold water!" he added defiantly.

Sergeant Turner could restrain himself no longer. "You'll get a drink when you've come through with a confession, you cold-blooded murderer!" Wilkins, bring that electric heater and turn it on him. Maybe he'll get hot enough and thirsty enough to tell the truth."

"May I speak with you a moment outside Sergeant?" Dundee interrupted respectfully. "And you, Uncle Pat?" he added to the police commissioner.

When the three stood together in the hall outside the closed door into the inquisition chamber, Dundee began earnestly:

"I have a request to make, Uncle Pat. I know both of you will think I'm just a credulous young idiot but I believe Sevier is telling a pretty straight story—as nearly a truthful one as any man could tell when it reflects against him as much as his story does. There is only one point in it that I seriously doubt—and that is that Cora Barker ever agreed to help him rob Mrs. Hogarth, on his promise of marriage or for any other reason. I believe he put that in to make things a little less black for himself."

"Shall I go in and apologize to him for arresting him?" Sergeant Turner interrupted sarcastically. "That was not exactly the request I had in mind," Dundee answered, with his wide, disarming smile. "Please bear with me a little longer, Sergeant."

"What do you want to do, boy?" Commissioner O'Brien asked, laying a hand on the young detective's shoulder. "I think you've done a good job so far. Being polite is a new kind of third degree, but I'm a son of a gun if it don't work! What do you want now? Going to take his pulse on one of those lie detectors, like a story-book detective?"

Big Sums Are To Be Spent For Equipment And In Expansion

New locomotives and cars costing around $9,000,000 were purchased by the Illinois Central System this year to provide further improvement of its service. This new equipment, nearly all of which is now in service, includes 15 steam locomotives, 10 electric locomotives, 18 passenger cars, 11 combination baggage cars, 5 express horse cars, 1000 automobile-furniture cars, 1500 coal cars, 800 flat cars and 25 caboose cars.

The steam locomotives are for switching service. They have replaced less powerful locomotives working in large yards, and so on down the line. The electric locomotives are for switching service in downtown Chicago, in connection with the electrification of the railroad's Chicago terminal.

The thirty-four passenger-train cars are all of the latest types, seventy feet long and of steel construction. The horse cars are chiefly for fast express shipments of race horses.

Of the automobile-furniture cars 700 are forty feet and 300 are fifty feet long. They have side doors ten feet wide, in a staggered arrangement, and 150 of them also have end doors. The coal cars are of the self-clearing hopper type, half being of 70-ton and half of 50-ton capacity. The flat cars have steel underframes and are of 50-ton capacity. The caboose cars provide better accommodations for trainmen and replace old cars taken out of service.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(UP)—Expenditures of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad will contribute over $150,000,000 to the business of the country in 1930, according to an announcement by the road's president, H. A. Scandrett.

This sum includes the cost of 300 ore cars, 600 flat cars, 700 box cars, 1000 gondolas and 750 stock cars. Orders for the ore cars already have been placed. Also included in the expenditures are the cost of 15 freight locomotives and 15 high speed passenger locomotives.

Subject to approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission the directors of the Milwaukee road have authorized $2,000,000 for revision of the line between Polo and Birmingham, Mo., in conjunction with similar work to be done by the Rock Island road, it was announced. This project calls for 21 miles of new track and the revision of about five miles of present track to provide a double line for the joint use of both railroads.

The 1930 budget for other roadway and structures expenditures is expected to amount to approximately $15,000,000—an increase of about $3,000,000 over 1929.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a radical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
